What I think of Veterans Day

To me Veterans Day is the special day where everyone gives some thanks to our past. Without our brave heroes we would not be our free country we are. Every year until now I have had Veterans Day in school with the special veterans that served for our country. We had assemblies and the veterans would come in our classrooms we would ask them questions like was it scary at war. At the end of the day the veterans have told us their stories at war and how it changed their lives.

I think that veterans mean so much to our past and how veterans change our futures. Without the brave soldiers that served in WWI or WWII we would not be the same safe country we are. If there were to be an attack next year, the soldiers would defend this country so we would be safe. If there were not brave soldiers that risked their lives for our nation we wouldn't be where we are right now.

When the veterans came back from some wars they were mistreated. Many people in the US did not want us in the Vietnam War so when the soldiers came home they were not given a warm welcome. The Soldiers in the Korean War were also treated badly and made fun of. It shouldn't matter how you feel about the War, the soldiers are still heroes.

Our country goes to war for many reasons. We go to help other countries who are being attacked. We go to war if someone attacks us like Pearl Harbor and September 11th. We go to help those who can't help themselves. Our veterans have been there to fight and protect wherever they were needed.

I hope that if there will be a war this or in the next few years, I would hope our brave military would be just as brave as they were many years ago. They fought battles and would go years without seeing any family. They saved so many lives then and all of us are so grateful for the work they did. So if you disagree with the military you should remember we could have been not here without the military.
