

Dear Soldier,

I think you are brave to be risking your life for other people and you and your mom, dad and your whole family, and strangers that you do not know. I wonder if you miss your family. Do you have any friends at the academy?

My dad is a veteran like you. He was in the Coast Guard with his sister when they were teenagers. My dad was in the Coast Guard for 4 years and his sister was there for 20 years. He learned a lot of things that you are going to learn, too.

I wonder do you play fortnite? What is your first mission? I am thankful for your work. You are doing a lot of stuff.

With Gratitude,
Clay

Dear Soldier,

Thank you for helping the country. It must be hard to leave family, friends and pets. I hope you are doing great. You are very brave cause I would be home. I'm too scared to do your job. You must be generous to be fighting for you and everyone else plus you could have stayed home and done your other job If you have more than one job.

My teacher Mrs. McKee read us this book called "The Wall." I learned that many people give their lives for the whole state. Thank you for helping us. You should be proud.

I'm wondering what do you eat, is it good, is it fun and what games do you play?

Sincerely,
Jackson

Dear Soldier,

I think you are very generous for risking your life. It takes a courageous person to become a soldier. I think you must be scared to risk your life for other people to live but just remember there are always people there for you.

My teacher read a book called "The Wall" and I learned that there are a lot of people who died for us in the war. They get their name on the wall. I think your family is really proud of you and I am sure that other families are proud of you to.

I am wondering what is boot camp like? What is your biggest challenge? Thank you for serving our country.

Sincerely,
Elaina

Dear Soldier,

Thank you for working for our country. I know it must be hard not being with your family or even a little scary for you too. I know that you are working very hard every day!

I have seen a book called "The Wall". I read it with my teacher. I learned The Wall is a very special place for people who have been a soldier before. We also read a few more books.

I am also wondering a few things. What has been the hardest thing you have done in the Military? I am also wondering what has been the best thing about being in the Military? I am also wondering what made you join the Military to be a Soldier?

Love,

Mia

Dear Soldier,

Thank you for your service. We appreciate you. You are very generous for choosing to help our country away from family. We are grateful to have people like you. You help protect our country.

I read "The Wall" and I learned that people make sacrifices for us to be protected. My brother is with you in the military.

What is white faze like? Is it fun shooting guns? What was your first mission? Thank you for your service.

Sincerely,
Ryder
