Veterans Day Essay

Have you ever thought of joining the army? Well my aunt did when she was 18 years old. I think it is important to celebrate Veterans Day so we can honor people like my Auntie Jana. It is a big sacrifice being in the army. She was away from her family for six years. It's important to honor people who fight for our rights and freedom. We should honor people that want to fight for our country.

My aunt Jana was in the army for six years and missed a lot of things while she was gone. That's a big sacrifice. She missed holidays, birthdays, and my daddy's college graduation to name a few things. I think its important people honor that decision she made because it's not easy to miss out on all those events. It could also get lonely in the military in the beginning. I can't believe that she was willing to miss all of the events that we celebrated. It is a big sacrifice to join the army.

Many people are not brave enough to join the army like my Auntie Jana. She went into the army because she wanted to serve our country. She went to Iraq for a full year. There were a lot of sand storms there. Going overseas to fight a war is something lots of people won't do, and people who are brave enough to do that deserve to be honored on Veteran's Day. She is probably one of the bravest people I know because she joined the army. It is really scary so people are scared to join the army.

My aunt fought for the United States and protected people overseas. She did this for people who she didn't know because she believed it was the right thing to do. Her life was in danger for strangers and she did it anyway. She's a hero for doing that and deserves to have a day of respect. Veterans are our heroes.

It is very important to honor veterans. They protect people they don't even know and sacrifice themselves just to save others. Veterans leave their family and friends. It is really hard to leave your family but my aunt did so she could join the army and protect America.
